Poetry.

The Difference.

There was an old lady all dressed in silk,
Who lived upon lemons and buttermilk;
And, thinking this world was a sour old place
She carried its acid all over her face.

Another old lady, all dressed in patches,
Lived upon nothing but Lucifer matches;
So the world, it made her strangle and cough,
And sure as you rubbed her, you set her off.

Another old lady, all sunny and neat,
Who lived upon sugar and everything sweet,
Declared, when she heard of their troubles,
she "never!"
For the world was so nice she could live on forever.

MORAL.

Now, children, take your choice
Of the food your hearts shall eat;
There are sourish thoughts, and brimstone thoughts,
And thoughts all good and sweet;
And whatever the heart feeds on,
Dear children, trust to me,
Is precisely what this queer old world
Will seem to you to be.

Selected Story.

Divergent Paths.

BY CHAS. J. CHATFIELD.

The sun lacked an hour of noon, and was beginning to pour down, scorching hot, upon the piece of cornland in the bottom. The laborers stopped at the end of a bout to wipe the perspiration from their heated brows. It seemed a long way across the lot, and the dry sand, unshadowed as yet by the young corn, looked far less inviting than the closely-cropped turf under th eshady elms in the pasture lot near by. The little spring, which bubbled from beneath the gnarled roots and lost itself a few paces further on in a tangled growth of cat-tails and wild grasses, seemed to beckon the tired men to forget their toil and rest beside it.

Old Hiram rubbed his shining bald pate with the remains of a red silk handkerchief, and, settling his palm-leaf upon his head, aimed a savage blow at a thrifty young burdock, standing so close to a stalk of corn that it had escaped the tooth of the cultivator.

"Now, lads," said he to the three or four younger men who stood each at the end of a new row, "les' git back here agin afore the old horn blows, an' so hev time ter rense out our mouths afore dinner."

"I declare, Hi," said John Marvin, "I believe I'll take a rense now, for I'm powerful dry. Joe, just keep my row along won't you," asked he, carelessly, of the young man next him, who had already loosened the earth around two or three hills of his own allotment. The other nodded, and proceeded to bring the idler's task alongside his own by a few swift strokes of his hoe.

Marvin leisurely climed the fence and strolled down the declivity, chopping off the heads of such mullein stalks as were within reach, and picking up a stone to fling at a golden-winged woodpecker that was foregoing on the half-decayed trunk of a blasted tree growing near his path.

He was just out of earshot when Hiram remarked: "John's a good natered chap, but he's mighty lazy. How meuny rows hev we fetched up for'im since we begun on to this twenty acres?"

"This makes my third one to-day," said Joe, laughing, "but I guess I'm the only one that he's asked this morning. John don't like to work very well, that's a fact."

"Ef I had to pay the hands on this farm, I should a' most be notioned to dock 'im when Sat'day night come 'round," put in another of the men, as he unearthed a Canada thistle.

"Pshaw, Tom," auswered Joe, with a smile, "John's a philosopher and looks upon work as one of the necessary evils existing in this lower world. He calculates on dodging it, so far as possible."

"Ef that's w'at you call a feelosifer, Joe," said old Hiram, "theyme animals as is not o'much 'count in a corn-field. You've ben to schule, w'ich is a better chance nor workin' men, as old as I be, hed w'en they war boys; an' so hez John, though I guess he never wus overly fond uv a book."

"I say, boys, if its as hot as this to-morrow, I believe that I've got to go to town to see about some Summer clothes.,'

Tom winked at Joe, who looked grave but said nothing.

That night, after the milking was done, John, with a cigar in his mouth, strolled out into the orchard, where Joe was seated under a tree, laying the fading twilight under contribution for rays enough to enable him to extract the pith from a coarsely-printed article in an agricultural journal, transfering now and then a thought to a note-book, which lay upon his knee.

"I say, Joe," said the former as he came up," let's go into the village to-morrow. I want to see about some cloths, and can't stop to wait for a rainy day, and you can make some errand in as well as not, so let's go and have a good time. Let's lay off half a day anyway."

Joe closed his note-book, and deliberately folded his paper, replying as he did so, "Can't afford to lose the time, my boy, don't need any clothes, and, beside, the work on the farm is already two or three days behind the point where I should want it to be if I were carrying it on myself."

"If you were carrying it on yourself!" said the other, with a curl of his lip, very nearly approaching a sneer; "what does that have to do with laying off half a day? You don't suppose a fellow is to take as much pains for old Foster as he would on a farm of his own, do you?"

"Why not, John, doesn't he take a great interest in the men that he hires? Aren't we welcome to read his books and papers when work is done, and doesn't he take as much pains to look after our welfare as though we were friends instead of mere hired laborers?"

"I should like to know what you mean by merely hired laborers? I'm as good as old Foster any day, and don't see any reason why I should slave myself to death on his farm, because he is sharp enough to leave books and papers around where we can pick them up, just as he leaves salt where the cattle can lick it. He's a keen old chap, and thinks that if the men takes an interest in keeping up things, as he calls it, he will get more work out of them; but he don't come it over me, I can tell yon."

"Now, John, I am really very sorry to hear you talk in that way, for I think Mr. Foster is trying to do us all the good that he can. He expects his work done, of course, since he pay us for it, but a good man can always get a little more from him than from anybody else in the township."

"Why, you act as though he had hired you to blow for him. Expect to have your wages raised, don't you?"

"I certainly shouldn't object if I didn't receive now as much as I could have the conscience to charge. I mean to be worth more next year, though."

"But see here, John;" calling after him, as he was moving away, "you won't be angry if I speak plainly to you?"

"Why, no, of course not."

"Well, then I'm afraid that it will make trouble, if you try to get off to-morrow, for the boys think that you 'sojer just a little now and then. They're sure to complain loud enough for Mr. Foster to hear of it, one or another of them, if they really get the idea into their heads, and you know, kind as he is, he won't stand any nonsense."

"Neither will I," answered the other, hotly, "and if any sneak says that I shirk my work, because I don't grub like a nigger all the time, it won't make any difference with my going to town when I choose to."

Next morning, as the old farmer sat on the porch after breakfast, reading his newspaper, John came around the house and asked leave to go to the village for the forenoon.

Looking over the top of his spectacles, the old man said: "Well, John, we are pretty well driven, you know; last week's rain has given the weeds such a start that we shall have brisk work to prevent their getting ahead of us; though, of course, you understand that and wouldn't ask to get off unless it were necessary. You can go."

As John passed through the gate, Mr. Foster turned to his daughter, who sat near by, busy with the farm accounts, and said: "Mary just see how many days and half-days that young man has laid off since the Spring work commenced."

Running her nimble fingers over the pages, she said: "Why, father, you don't intend to charge them to him, do you."

"Certainly not, child, I only want to know if old Thomas Foster isn't loosing too much money by hiring a hand who has so much business off the farm in the busy season."

"He has been away three whole days and five half-days, since work in the sugar-bush stopped. Shall I go back any further than that?"

"No, that will do. I guess that I shall have to recommend John to turn his attention to something not quite so confining as farm labor, after his next month is up."

"That means, sir, that you will discharge him, I suppose."

"Humph! you have guessed it very nearly," he replied. "I cannot encourage loose business habits in a man whose only capital lies in his muscles, and I never refuse a man leave to go when he asks it. Each must judge for himself as to the number of holidays which he requires, for I wish to satisfy those whom I employ."

In a few minutes, Mary closed her book, and was gliding through the half-opened door, when her father said: "Child, there was a young man from the village out here, yesterday, while you were down at the lower farm, and he wanted to know if I should object to receiving him as a son-in-law."

The girl opened her eyes very wide.

"So you are getting tired of me, father?"

"What put that into your silly pate?"

"Why, sir, you know you have brought us up to consider your own occupation the morst healthful and among the most worthy of earthly pursuits. Now, of course, if I were to go into the village—for I suppsse I was wanted, since you are speaking to me—where would be all my girlish fancies of 'A little farm well tilled, and a little wife well willed,' and all that?"

"Nonsense, girl, I thought that young Granger's name was Joe, not Will."

This time the rich blood, mounting swiftly to cheek and brow, left no doubt as to the fate of the young man from the village.

"Is that all, father?"

"No. Just see how that saucy fellow, the mere mention of whose name brings up so much color, is entitled to call on me for. Expect he will be asking for it one of these days."

"Joe has your note for five hundred, sir, and he only takes up half his wages every month."

"Oh ho! so you can tell without looking, can you. Miss Bookkeeper? Then it has gone so far as that, has it? Pray, how much do I owe you for butter and eggs?"

"The egg money belongs to Kate, father."

"Yes, yes, so it does. You girls have that fixed to suit yourselves. What were the profits on your flock of sheep last year?"

"About two hundred dollars, sir, and there was not quite a hundred dollars' worth of butter sold. But I must go and skim the milk, if you are through with me."

"Don't be in a hurry child; to-day is your birthday, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"How old are you?"

"Why, father, you know that I am twenty, don't you?"

"Suppose I should, puss, if I stopped to think about it; but it is easier to ask you then to reckon up. How much will you give for the lower farm?"

"Why, I haven't enough to pay for the stock that is on it, to say nothing of the farm. I haven't over eight hundred dollars beside my flock of sheep."

"Go to my secretary, and bring me that large envelope that is in the little drawer on the left side."

The girl did as she was bidden.

"Open it, child," he said, as she again stood before him, "and see if you will agree to the provission of the document."

Hastily running her eyes over the paper, she threw her arms around the old man's neck, exclaiming, "Why, you dear, good father, if you meant to give me the farm, why did you put in the deed that I was to pay you a dollar for it?"

"Because a gift, without a consideration therefor, does not constitute a legal transfer. But, Mary, has Joe ever asked you to be his wife?"

"He has said that he should, sir, if I were not the danghter of a man in so much better circumstances than himself."

"What did you tell him?"

"What could I say, sir? He didn't ask me to say anything."

"What would your answer have been if he had?"

"That my father began life with nothing, and that his daughter has been taught not to consider an industrious young man like himself as unworthy of a much better wife than I could make him."

"Tut, tut, I can't allow that. My Mary is worthy of any young man in the land."

Ten years have passed since the above conversation took place.

Farmer Foster is seated at twilight under the old porch, with a grandchild on each knee. The last load of hay from the meadows on the hillside is passing on its way to the barn. The old man seldom remains in the fields all day now, for he is needed at the house to mind the children, he says; and Mary, but a trifle more matronly in her appearance, quite agrees with him.

A bearded man, with a rake upon his shoulder, walking behind the wagon, stops to close the farm-yard gate. As the children run to meet him, we notice that he extends but a single hand, for the possession of which a playful scuffle takes place.

Joe's right arm struck its last blow for freedom at Five Forks, but he often quietly remarks that it is surprising how much work a man can do with one hand, after he is used to it.

Seating himself upon the lower step, he bids the little girl ask mamma if a poor cripple can have a bowl of bread and milk. The tiny sprite laughs and runs into the house.

Returning presently, she replies, "Yeth, thir, if he won't carry off the thpoon."

Just then a boy, riding up to the gate, calls out, "Mr. Granger, I brought up your mail from the village."

"Thank you, my lad," answered our old friend, "you needn't get off from your horse, I'll come for it."

Opening a newspaper, and glancing rapidly over its columns, Joe said, "There's another strike on the line of the railroad, and the militia have been called out. Bless me! if the discharged brakemen haven't been stoning the troops until they have provoked them into firing upon them. Let's see, here's a list of wounded: Patrick Morrow, James Mc Caffrey, Bernard Coyle, Mat Ferguson, John Marvin."

"What!" said old farmer Foster, can that be the young fellow that used to work on the farm, Joe?"

"I fear it is, sir. John was railroading the last that I knew anything about him. He was conductor of a freight train for a while, but was so careless and unsteady that he had to go back to a brake."

"Poor fellow, I am sorry for him," remarked Mary. "He has no home to go to."

"I'll just drive down to the village, and see how badly he is hurt," said the younger of the two men, rising. "We were boys together, and if John is in trouble, I must do what I can for him."

Late that night, Joe returned, bringing with him, in a hired conveyance, his old schoolmate, stretched upon a bed. He had found him upon the floor at the railway station, and refused to leave him to the care of the town authorities.

The poor fellow never recovered his former vigor, but does light work about the farm, and lectures soundly all idle young men whom he chances to meet.

"I have a right to preach," he says, "since I furnish a text in my own person."

Judge Merriman's Speech.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

I heard the speech of Judge Merriman the Democratic Candidate for Governor, delivered at this place on the 25th ult. In the course of his remarks, he went back to the beginning of the abolition movement, and arraigned the Radicals of a deliberate attempt to destroy the constitution. He took only a surface view of things, and to many his arguments would seem plausable. Let us go deeper. We can no more blame the abolitionists than we can condemn the march of civilization. The present advance of human rights on our globe is due to the long series of Roman laws on contracts running through the Pandects, Codes, and the Institutes of Justinian. The authors of them had at the time, no conception of the tendency of what they were doing. You cannot define the law of contracts without implying the rights of those making them. The long era of Roman power, over such a large part of our globe, impressed all nations under her sway with the full force of this element—in social forces. The advance of human rights keep pace with man's social and mental advance. They are all on the same plane, and follow the same laws of evolution. No human power on this globe can arrest them. Our age is but the elongation and projection of the past and the abolitionists were only the individualizasion of those marching social forces. They could no more help speaking the thoughts within them than they could cease breathing. Both became a necessity. This implied an advance from old to new forms of thought and this thought conformed to the moving social forces of the age. Hence to blame them as guilty of high crimes. is the same as to arraign the human intellect as the great agent in man's ceaseless advance, conditioned so by the Deity.

The Judge accused the Republicans of a design of destroying the Constitution. I have much respect for the Constitution, but not much more than for many of the other works of man, as all of them require alterations and adjustments to suit arising necessities. A Constitution, like a creed, is only a means to an end, and neither is lasting. They conform to the great social law of advance, the harmonizing, equilibrium of internal mental and physical external conditions. The Arian, Athanasian, Augsburg and creed of Roehelle, were only the answers and quietus, to the questions and demands that arose in that age.

Our Constitution was the answer to the demands and interests of three millions of people who had begun new latitudes of departure. Civil society is the offspring of human convention, and if that he admitted then that conventibn must be its law and must limit and modify it and all the parts and conditions of a Constitution made by it. All executive, judicial and legislative powers, are its creatures. They can exist in no other way. Government has been ably defined as a contrivance of human wisdom for human wants. The safety of society demands that the passions of individuals as well as the masses of men should be restrained, it can be done by a power out of themselves, the necessities of a strong central power or government becomes a necessity for the existence of civil society. Much of the discussion of men's abstract rights is pure nonsense. We might as well discuss his right to take food or medicine. The main issue is to procure the first and when and how to administer the other. In prating of the rights of men they wholly ignore the nature of men. They confound might and right.

In all ages there are obscure and almost latent causes, considered at the time of little moment which are always changing and modifying all governments We are now in this transition state. They lie too deep for the uncultivated mind, or the papers of the day, as they take (with some few exceptions) only a surface view of things. Few have any conception of government as a science. They imagine it only as a machine formed for experimental purposes on the a priori system when it is a growth. We have passed through a long struggle. Two opposing forces have contended for supremacy.

An outer force acting on the circumference in opposition to the focal centre of the old forces. The new Southern and the old central government, trying to move in the same orbit. Like two planets in collision the crash was terrific and destructive of old forms of structure. The external power of the new force, from the laws of force, produced a powerful pressure on the old and inner force. The dynamic laws of evolution must and did prevail. The old focal centre, roused into higher activity, crushed the new external one. By the effort to do this it was compelled to develop a greater amount of force than usual. This extra amount of force, or centralism, has not yet subsided down to its normal conditions. This is the present state of the case as regards all this centralizing intentions of Republicanism. It comes with bad grace from a party that used even war to subvert the constitution, under the pretext of trying to save it, to accuse those who saved it of an intention to destroy it. I think it bad policy to bring up the issues of the war. The North and South both have sins of omission and commission clinging to each side. If they were not both guilty, they might throw stones at each other. But I believe it was only the innocent who was to cast the stone.

Our Constitution is the work of man, and like all the works of man, his creeds, his codes, and dogmas, was made to meet the necessities of the day. They must be modified to meet the issue of events. The deluded fool, who wants "the constitution as it was" is like one who imagines he remains always in the same point in space. The earth in its orbit never comes to the same point again. Our Constitution is the only compass to guide us, but like the compas it can be boxed about for awhile. The magnetic needle trembles during a storm, yet there comes a time when it returns to its normal condition. When the disturbing forces of the South will be in harmony with the moving social forces of the North, the trembling needle will be in equilibrium again. The South made the blunder of attempting to carry onward two civilizations, that of the middle ages and the moving social forces of to day. They had the banner of human rights in front, with the dead weight of slavery in the rear. They tried to carry together the dead and living forces in man's grand march of advance. They failed—the thing was morally and physically impossible. God had not stamped it in the laws of nature.

Burke, said the wounds of a State should be touched with a fatherly hand. We should not open old irritated sores. Men cannot advance or grow wise by their passions. This war was a blessing in disguise. Storms must occur in the social and moral as well as in the physical world. They purify our atmosphere and the old forms of thought. The moving world of social forces like the physical has periods of great oscillation. But they cannot last long, they are the necessary conditions of the correlation and conservation of mental and physical forces. Let us look on them from this high plane of reason, and not from the lower plane of sentiment, eternally scolding and carping and dwarfing our intellects into mere sensations. Let us learn to resign ourselves to the decrees of God—the inevitable march of humanity. Wars, life, and all matter on our globe, is only a means to an end. This and this alone, reconciles us to the carnage, the suffering, the losses in all wars. We owe our present social condition to the struggles sorrows and conflicts of long past generations. We of

PATRIOTISM VERSUS PROVINCIALISM.

The great majority of people claim to be patriotic. They believe they are so. They love their country, and are very sensitive to any word or insinuation which reflects upon the honor of its people, or the excellence of its institutions. It seems to be one of the instincts planted in the heart of man, and to be as natural and universal as the love of family and of home.

This instinct is the foundation of that bond of union, more or less exhibited in all communities, and on which States and nations mainly depend for their strength and perpetuity. It is patriotism, or, in other words, love of country, which furnishes the chief moral support of every government in the world. Without it no government could exist, and the principle is as applicable to the most savage tribes as to intelligent and civilized nations. It is patriotism that inspires reverence for legitimate authority, respect for the rights of fellow citizens, and makes it possible for thousands, and even millions of people, to live peaceably and happily together under the same laws and institutions.

When the cohesive element of patriotism is wanting there is sure to be anarchy, riot, and revolution. Every man's hand is turned against his fellows. That sense of security, which is the first condition of prosperity and progress, disappears, and distrust of all men takes its place. The civil arm of the government, which is ample for the protection of life and property when it has the moral support of patriotism, becomes partially or wholly paralyzed, and nothing is left to restore order but the physical force which resides in military organization.

From these considerations it will be seen how impotent are penal codes, in themselves considered, to secure order and submission to law. Such laws have their place; they present a strong barrier to the turbulent passions of turbulent men; they are essential in every government, but they derive their efficiency entirely from the patriotic reverence for law and order, residing in the masses, who are strongly opposed to the criminal tendencies of the few.

As for provincialism, it is patriotism undeveloped. It has its root in the same instinct, but its growth has been checked, and its application circumscribed within narrow limits. It is all right as far as it goes, but its fault is, that it does not go far enough. Patriotism is a love for the whole country. It is that sentiment which takes pride in our nationality; which entertains a generous affection for all the people of our common country; which respects the national flag, the national laws, and rejoices in the proud position we hold among the nations of the earth. On the other hand it is provincialism when a man's love of country does not extend beyond the narrow limits of his State; who holds his allegiance to the latter first, the nation last; who regards with a cold and unfriendly feeling such of his countrymen as dwell beyond those boundary lines, as though they were aliens and foreigners.

In years gone bye there was much talk of patriotism in these Southern States. Many, no doubt, honestly believed they were ardent patriots, when their love of country did not extend beyond their State, or, at most, beyond "the South." They looked upon the North with suspicion, and at last with hatred; and when the power and patronage of the General Government ceased to be dispensed in the interest of "the South" and its peculiar institutions, it was found that there was not sufficient patriotism, of that broad national character which is alone worthy the name, to save it from rebellion. There was an abundance of provincialism, but little patriotism.

Why this was so is easily explained. For at least a half a century prior to the close of the war the North and the South were practically two countries. There was one flag, one President, one Congress, but really two countries. There was Freedom in one section and Slavery in the other, which gave rise to a series of laws, habits, and principles wholly antagonistic and irreconcilable; so that patriotism in the South came to signify a supreme regard for its "peculiar institution" and the Southern people.

Nor has this sentiment entirely died out yet. This provincialism, this narrow sectional spirit thrusts itself into prominence too often and in too many localities still. It manifests itself in various ways. But it must yield. The true friends of the South must frown it down. They must come out of the shell in which they have been so long imbedded. The veil that has hung as a black pall before their vision must be removed. Here in the South is an inheritance richer and grander than most of the people really know. Southern men! there is something besides the corn and cotton fields of Carolina as your country. This broad expanse of territory, protected by the stars and stripes, with all its advantages of liberal institutions and untold resources, is for you and your children. Decide, and do it now, whether you will be swept away by the tide of progress which is rushing past you, or whether you will throw off the lethargy that now enthrals you and give your labor and your influence toward making your country blossom as the rose.

Men of the South! you say that you are glad that Slavery is gone. Cease, then, to repine at the manner of its going, and lend your aid to the great work before you. Our institutions are all homogeneous now. Freedom, equal rights, liberty of speech, education for all—these are the laws of our whole country. Let there be no more narrow provincialism, but a broad and generous patriotism, embracing every section and all the people in our wide domain. Upon this platform can North Carolina make progress, and grow rich and become powerful, and upon no other.

The Democrats are vigilant. They have resolved to win if possible. Let Republicans be alike earnest and active

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

If the "Liberal Republicans" had anything to offer that is better than what the people now posess in the great party now in power; if they had any new and logically defined principles that could add to the glory, prosperity and peace of the nation, it might be well to considered them seriously. But the very opposite components which it proposes to combine will either refuse to unite, or in their amalgamation will produce new principles that may contain more dangerous elements than we care to contemplate. We find an analogy in nature. Sulphur is harmless; so is charcoal: so is nitre; but combine them and the destinies of nations may be changed by the gunpowder which they form. So in the attempt to harmonize free trade and protection as the "Liberals" propose,—it never can be done. Like oil of turpentine and oil of vitriol, they cannot exist in the same viol, but will explode in one common destruction, carrying ruin in their course.

WAS IT FALSEHOOD OR PERJURY.

Our readers well remember that during the Convention campaign of last summer every Democratic stump speaker most solemnly declared that if the measure was voted down the Legislature would be compelled to levy a tax of $50 to every thousand dollars worth of property or perjure themselves. Indeed, it is not forgotten that the Democratic members of the Legislature, in a public address to the people, said the same thing. Well the measure was voted down. They didn't levy the tax. Did they lie, or did they perjure themselves? Which? Can the honest masses trust such men? No.

THE WORKING MEN FOR GRANT.

The Working Men held a National Convention in New York on the 23d ult. It was an important representative body, having in it more than two hundred delegates from thirty States. They held a ballot for Presidential candidates and the result was 204 for GRANT and 5 for GREELEY. This is about indicative of the latter's proportionate strength throughout the country.

IT WOULD BE MADNESS.

The truth is that since the adoption of the three last Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and the closing up of the War question, our foreign relations and our domestic policy in matters of finance and revenue are again assuming their natural prominence. To entrust these great interests to an Administration made up and controlled by HORACE GREELEY would be mere mid-summer madness. And so declares Senator FERRY of Connecticut.

There are a certain class of men—generally loco foco politicians—who assess themselves very highly, except when the tax gatherer comes around. They labor under the fallacy that the majestic world is moved by their utterance as the tides by the moon. They are planning, and scheming and plotting, and they have deluded themselves into the belief that the people have confidence in their sagacity, their wisdom, and—Heaven save the mark: their honesty! Oh what a delusion. But they wont realize it until the votes of August are counted.

It is stated that vegetation is completely destroyed all around Vesuvius by the eruption we referred to last week, and that vast estates are completely ruined. Orange groves, with their sweet perfume, and rich vineyards, all are alike gone. The younger PLINY'S account of the dreadful eruption of 1779 seems to have been a vivid description of what occurred in 1872. Nature does not seem to have altered any of the processes in her awful laboratory.

The indications now are that the Democratic Convention at Baltimore in July will be divided into three factions, the one favorable to the endorsement of GREELEY, another for a straight out Democratic ticket, and the third in favor of the "passive policy." We are no prophet, but we predict that the nomination of Mr. GREELEY will be endorsed, and the "straight outs" will bolt and put a ticket in the field. There is a good deal more of discord and division lurking in the Democratic camp than is generally known.

The natural place for every old line Whig is in the Republican party. Those who have been co-operating with the Democracy have not felt at home. They have been like strangers in a strange house. There has been no congeniality of feeling, no harmony of sentiment. All has been cold and repulsive. And they are beginning to leave. They are coming over to us. It is where they naturally belong.

Why is it that the Democratic editors and stump speakers ignore augument and plain facts in their writings and speeches? Is it because they are destitute of both? Whenever we see men seeking to influence the prejudices and passions of their followers we may invaribly set it down that it is their only stock in trade.

The Democratic delegates to the Baltimore Convention from this District are Maj. H. A GILLIAM, of Chowan, and J. L. MITCHELL, of Bertie. The alternates are F. B. SATHERWAIT, of Beaufort, and THOS. G. SKINNER, of Perquimans. Capt. OCTAVIOUS COKE, of Edenton, was elected as Elector.

Only five Republican newspapers of the State of New York are found supporting the nomination of HORACE GREELEY for President, and one of these died within a week for want of support.

The Democrats of Pennsylvania held their State Convention at Reading on the 30th ult. Our old neighbor in Bloomsburg, Pa., Hon. C. R. BUCKALEW was nominated for Governor.

The decrease in the public debt for May is about four and a quarter Millions.

If billingsgate and personal abuse were argument the Washington Express in this District, and a few other papers out of it who are traducing our nominee for Congress would be ably conducted journals. But as they are not, their attacks produce about as much effect as water on a goose's back or a dose of castor oil on a graven image. That is all.

The New York World insists that to accept HORACE GREELEY as the Democratic candidate would be like a proposition to insert Bealzebub in the calendar of Saints. The World may have to do it nevertheless.

The National Republican Convention met at Philadelphia yesterday. It was the largest deliberative body that ever assembled on this continent. The result will be announced in our next issue.

Republicanism is principle, and the Republican organization is the only means of making the principle practice. Hence let every true Republican stand firmly by the organization.

Correspondence.

Our Washington Letter.
No. 24.

Washington, D. C., May 30th, 1872

The heroic conduct of our sailors in the harbor of Marseilles where they saved a large amount of property from destruction by towing the burning vessel out to sea, has been favorably commented upon in the European press.

According to the course pursued by Gov. Palmer of Illinois, who, when the government sent two companies of troops to preserve order and to give the unfortunate sufferers of Chicago all the aid and security they could, and when Sheridan distributed large quantities of army blankets, our soldiers and our government were guilty of an infraction of the State laws, and violent and most wild were his protests against this unwarranted interferance. We would be surprised, however, if France were to appear in a similar quarelsome spiritl against the interferance with national law caused by American sailors in similar emergency, to protect and save their shipping from destruction. Yet the cases are entirely similar, with this addition, that at Chicago our troops were used to protect the citizens of our own nation, at the request of the inhabitants and the Mayor of the city, while in France our sailors acted without formal request from any one, and in a country beyond our jurisdiction.

This comparison of the two events brings out the shameful ingratitude and meanness of spirit, and an anxiety to find fault with the conduct of the Federal authorities in the most striking manner.

The citizens of Chicago did not deem it an interference when the District of Columbia taxed itself for $60,000 for their relief, and when millions were sent to them by the contributions of the citizens of the several States.

The time will come when Gov. Palmer will himself be ashamed of the spirit of the part which he acted in the controversy.

THE KU KLUX BILL.

The defeat of the extension of the law against secret political associations in the South, in the House of Representatives on Thursday was occasioned by the defection of a few Republicans, from some of whom better things might have been expected. As to Blair of Michigan who led the column, we may virtually reckon him as one of the Greeleyites who after long hesitation has made up his mind to go over to the enemy. Mr. Blair is a gentleman of ability and we regret that he has taken this very stange course as he has few followers in the State of Michigan. It comports with his action regarding the Sec. of the Navy.

HURRIED ADJOURNMENT.

If the House had not agreed to rescind their action of adjournment on the 29th and postpone adjournment until the 3d of June, there would have been an extra session called.

Several measures of great importance must now necessarily be abandoned, while the tariff and other important legislation will be hurried through at breakneck-pace, which will render the laws unusually defective.

I cannot conceive why there has been such great anxiety displayed on the part of Congress to adjourn. The first of July would have been amply early enough to give members time to attend to their re-nomination and re-election.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

We hope the Civil Rights Bill which passed the Senate and which received the majority vote in the House, but not the two-thirds majority which was necessary to take it up, will yet be passed. The measure simply provides that common carriers and tavern keepers shall make no distinction on account of color, and serve every well behaved traveler alike.

This is but common justice and if the Democrats and "Liberal" Republicans, so called, choose to make an issue upon this question we have no doubt of the result. Let us have the civil rights bill passed.

TESTING RECALCITRANTS.

Mr. Butler yesterday reported the Ku Klux bill anew in the House, when filibustering immediately commenced. A number of dilatory motions were made and the House adjourned without action. As opposition to the Ku Klux bill is made distinctively a party matter by the Democrats, it will soon be settled whether or not the Republicans who voted against this measure of protection to the South, and who have been hitherto relied upon as Republicans will adhere to this course when it is known that assisting its defeat is aiding the opposition.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

Will be very numerously attended, a large number of delegates and others have arrived in this city, and their report is exceedingly encouraging. On the whole the political horizon is unclouded and the re-election of Grant as certain as any future event can be.

C. M.

Congress.

On the 28th ult., the Senate concurred in the House resolution to adjourn June 3.——The so-called Ku Klux bill was defeated in the House by a large vote. More thefts of records have been discovered in the War Department.

On the 29th ult., the Senate, spent the afternoon and evening discussing the Tariff and Tax bill, but without disposing of it.——In the House, the Ku Klux Committee reported the bill to amend the Enforcement act.

On the 30th ult., the Senate was occupied in disposing of the Tariff and Tax bill.——In the House, the bill for the better security of bank reserves was passed. An evening session was held for debate on the Ku Klux bill.

On the 31th ult., in the Senate Mr. Sumner spoke at great length in vindication of his course in the Senate, and in criticising the acts of the Administration.——In the House, a large number of unimportant bills were passed. The House refused to take the Ku Klux bill from the Speaker's table by a vote of—Yeas, 110; Nays, 95—less than two-thirds in the affirmative.

He must be twenty-one years of age or upwards; a native or naturalized citizen of the United States; and must have resided in this State twelve months preceding the election and thirty days in the County in which he offers to vote. Any person possessing the above qualifications is entitled to register and vote in the township in which he lives.

CHANGING, DISCONTINUING, CREATING PRECINCTS.

County Commissioners may establish, alter, discontinue or create separate places for voting in their counties; but there must be at least one polling place in each township, as nearly central as possible. Thirty day notice of such change, &c., must be given in some newspaper published in the county in the county, or in lieu thereof, by handbill posted in three places in such county. If no such notice is given the precincts as heretofore established shall continue.

REGISTRATION BOOKS.

The Commissioners shall, on or before the 1st Monday in July, 1872, select one Justice of the Peace for each township or election precinct to act as Registrar therein. Where there are not enough Justices, the Commissioners shall appoint some person to act as Registrar.

REVISING OLD REGISTRATION BOOKS &c.

Registrars of each township or precinct shall revise existing registration books so that they shall contain an accurate list of all the voters previously registered in such township or precinct, who still resides therein, without requiring such voters to register again. The Registrars shall, between sunrise and sunset on each day (Sundays excepted) from the 1st Thursday in July, 1872, up to and including the day preceding first Thursday in August, 1872, keep open the books for the registration of any voters residing in the township or precinct, entitled to register, whose names have not been registered in such township or precinct before, or do not appear in the revised list.

WHEN AND WHERE TO REGISTER AND VOTE NO CERTIFICATES OF REGISTRATION.

No person can register in a township or precinct whereof he is not an actual and bona fide resident. No certificates of registration will be given. Electors must vote in the townships or precincts where they actually reside on election day.

No registration will be allowed on election day, except where the person offering to vote arrives at the age of twenty-one, or for some other reason, becomes entitled to vote on that day, under the laws of this State; in which event he shall be allowed to register and vote.

JUDGES OF ELECTION—CHALLENGING.

The county Commissioners shall, on or before the first Monday in July, 1872, appoint in each township or precinct, four judges of election, two of whom shall be of a different political party from the Registrar.

The Judges and Registrars shall, on the Saturday preceding the election, from nine o'clock, a. m., till five o'clock, p. m., attend at the polling place of their township or precinct, with the registration books, when and where the said books shall be open to the inspection of the electors of the township or precinct, and any elector shall be allowed to object to any name appearing on the said books. Where there is an objection the registrar shall enter opposite the name so objected to the word "challenged," and shall appoint a time and place, on or before election day, when he, together with the judges of election shall hear and decide upon such objection. Due notice of the time and place of hearing shall be given the person objected to. If such notice is not given, the person objected to can vote.

Challenging can be done on any other day than that above specified. It may also be done on the day of election. The Judges of election and the Registrar for each township or precinct, after being duly sworn, shall hold the election at the precincts or townships for which they were severally appointed. They shall keep poll books in which shall be entered the name of every person who votes.

County officers shall be on one ballot and deposited in a separate box.

The tickets shall be on white paper and either written or printed, or both, and must be without device.

If two or more tickets be rolled up together, or if any ticket shall contain more names than the elector has a right to vote for, or shall have a device upon it; in either of these cases such tickets shall be thrown out and not counted.

PENALTIES ON OFFICERS.

Any Registrar or Judge of election or any officer failing to perform any duty required of him bythe Election Act shall on conviction be fined not more than one thousand dollars nor less than five hundred, and imprisoned not more than six nor less than two months.

The Newly Elected Methodist Bishops.

The Methodist General Conference at Brooklyn, New York, elected on Tuesday five bishops of that church, viz: Dr. Wm. L. Harris of Ohio. Dr. Randolph S. Foster of New York, Dr. Thomas Bowman of Indiana, Dr. I. W. Wiley of Newark, N. J., and Dr. S. M. Merrill of Ohio. Wednesday three additional bishops were elected, viz: Rev. Jessie T. Peck of New York, Rev. Gilbert Haven of Boston, and Rev. Edward G. Andrews of New York, completing the number of eight proposed to be added to the ecclesiastical dignitaries.

Dr. Wm. L. Harris is a native of Ohio, is 55 years of age, was professor in the Ohio Wesleyan University; in 1860 he was elected associate missionsary of the church.

Dr. Randolph S. Foster was born in Kentucky, and is 62 years of age. He is the president of the Drew Theological Seminary at Madison, N. Y., He is the author of several works.

Dr. S. M. Merill was born in Ohio, and is 47 years of age. He is the editor of the Western Christain Advocate, of Cincinnati, one of the leading official organs of the denomination; a man whose fortunate fame, it is said, came suddenly upon him in the preceeding conference, as the reward of a single but splendid speech on the right of laymen to a voice and vote in the church.

Dr. Issac W. Wiley editor of the Ladies, Repository' goes from the same profession to the same honorable promotion. He is 53 years of age.

Rev Dr. Thomas Bowman was born in Berwick, Pa., is 54 years old, is a graduate of Dickinson College, entered the Baltimore Conference in 1839, was previously principal of the old "Light Street Institute." He is now president of the Asbury University, Greencastle, Indiana.

Rev. Dr. Jesse T. Peck is a native of New York, and was four years principal of the Gouneraner Seminary, New York, and was subsequently elected president of Dickinson College. He was at one time a member of the Baltimore Conference, and is now president of the Syracuse University, New York.

Rev. Gilbert Haven is a native of New England, and is the editor of Zion's Herald, Boston.

A Marked Difference.

If the people will examine closely the actions of the two parties in North Carolina in reference to corrupt men, they will see a marked difference. The Republicans send those who taint the name, "where the woodbine twineth;" the Democrats promote the meanest and most corrupt to the highest positions. The Republicans arraign, prosecute and punish their villians; the Democrats smooth over the stealing and corruptions of their swindlers, and apologize for, as well as attempt to shield their criminals

A. S. Merrimon, the Ku Klux candidate for Governor, drew the bills that robbed North Carolina of millions of dollars and the confidential adviser of the Swepson-Littlefield Rail roading. Thomas L. Clingman, who received $15,00 of the stolen rail road funds, was a prominent actor in the Ku Klux Grand Council. "James Madison Leach," wh, was not Dr. J. T. Leach, the Peace man in the Confederate Congress, but was the legal adviser of Ku Klux murderers, was run as a candidate for the nomination for Governor and will doubtless be the nominee for Congress in the 5th District. John W. Graham, the Infamous, who introduced the bill to pardon the Ku Klux criminals and who earnestly supported the bill which incites criminals to swear lies, is the Ku Klux candidate for Treasurer. Josiah Turner, who overdrew $3,000 for public printing, was honorably discharged and re-awarded the printing over cheaper and more honest bidders.

On the 29th ult., in Richmond Va. a shooting affray between Thaddeus S. Bennett and William R. Howe, resulted in the latter being killed.

A little busy "bumble-bee" drove a brother out of church at Indianapolis, the other day, by trying to extract honey out of his shiney bald pate.

From Halifax we learn that the Newfoundland steamer brings news of the loss of the schooner Velocipede, engaged in the seal fisheries. Twelve persons were drowned.

"If Democrats are fools enough to vote for Greeley," says the Marshall (Mich) Expounder, "we shall feel as if we might just as well be fools enough to vote for Grant."

The name "grass widow" is of French origin. It is derived from the French grace, and originally meant a widow by courtesy.

Ripley, Ohio, is almost in a panic over mad dogs. One hundred mad dogs are reported to have been killed there within a week. A number of horses were bitten two of which have died.

Judge Davis says that he has retired from politics, that he will not be a candidate for President before the Democratic Convention, and that he shall recommend the working men to support General Grant.

A lady teacher in an Iowa school lately punished a boy for kissing the big girls by making him stand up before all the scholars and show how it was done. She found this policy wouldn't work. The boys thought it capital punishment, and it had to be abolished.

The following advertisement lately appeared in a Pennsylvania paper: "If the middle-aged party who spoke to a young lady at Center Square, in a blue bonnet, will call upon her brother, he will find something to meet his eye. Address Pugilisticus, box 1001."

An Indiana paper has this scandal: "Owensbug, Green: county, shipped one hundred and twenty barrels of whiskey to Kentucky last week, to be manufactured into seventy-year old Bourbon. The process will occupy about forty-eigh hours."

Mrs. Phoebe Schofield, age stated at 105, has been at Washington seeking a pension due to her husband (now dead), who served in the Revolutionary War. We read that when she was introduced to the President, and he shook hands with her, she said: "I saw the first President, and now I have taken the hands of the last I ever shall."

From the city of Mexico, we have news that an incendiary recently set fire to and destroyed the greatest historical relic of the country the celebrated tree, of "Noche Triste," a souvenir of the night on which Cortes captured Mexico. The tree, which was at Popotio, near the capitol, has been visited by thousands annually. Intense indignation is felt at the sacrilege.

Twin children, ten months old, of Mrs. Ball, of Portland, Me., were left by their mother for a few moments, on Wednesday, alone, when a cat attacked one of them, lying upon the floor, tearing and biting the flesh about the face in a horrible manner, large pices from the cheek having been torn out and devoured. It is possible the child may live.

The good old Puritan State of Connecticut seems determined to maintain its modern reputation for setting at naught the marriage tie According to the New Haven Register, thirty-two divorces were granted by the Superior Court for Hartford county, at the March term. One couple had been married only six months, and one for nearly thirty-two years. The average time the parties remained married is nine years and ten months.

A most remarkable crowd assembled two or three weeks since in Paris, before the Ministry of Justice. There were all the executioners in France. It had been determined that for the whole Republic there should be only one headsman, and each of these skillful operators hoped to secure the proud position. In all there were thirty of them—artists whose business it was to cut off heads; and yet it is said that a milder looking set of men was never gathered together. Most of them had been apprenticed to their beautiful business in early boyhood, and each looked to the coveted appointment as to what A. Ward calls "a sweet boon." We believe France is the only country in the world in which the executioner is not ex-officio disreputable.

NORTH CAROLINIAN

THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1872.

☞ TO NORTHERN VISITORS.☜

Elizabeth City is 50 miles South East of Norfolk, Va. Parties coming here from the North should take passage on the Bay line Steamers which leave Baltimore at 4 P. M. every evening, and arrive at Portsmouth the next morning in time to connect with the Elizabeth City Steamers, daily.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

Call attention to the following new advertisements in this issue.

Bankrupt Notice.

Local and Personal.

☞ Superior Court in Currituck next week.

☞ The weather continues cool, pleasant and delightful.

☞ G. M. JENNINGS has remodeled his building on Road street, fitting it up as a commodious store room.

☞ If you want the news you've got to take the NORTH CAROLINIAN. There is no mistake about that.

☞ We learn that our popular friend Capt. ACKERLY has rented the Nag's Head Hotel and proposes "running it" this Summer. Good!

☞ J. M. WHEDBEE is moving to Hertford. He has purchased the Steam Mill at that place. We lose a good citizen but Hertford gains one.

☞ Cheering news reaches us from all parts of the District. The Republican columns are forming in solid phalanx and the watchword all along the line is Unity, Harmony and Victory!

☞ The Commissioners of this county met on Monday and laid the tax for 1872. It will be about Five Thousand Dollars less than last year. "Well done good and faithful servants."

☞ Pasquotank is ahead. J. CLARK PERRY brings us orchard grass measuring over five feet. He has a field of orchard grass and clover as good as any we ever saw. He is cutting it this Week.

☞ Our Devil says that he has ciphered out to a certainty that if a young man courts a young woman, and he is won and she is won, that they will both be one. Let some other young man try it and report.

☞ The pole said to be most successful in bringing down the fruit of the persimmon tree is the longest one; but the one that invariably brings the NORTH CAROLINIAN is Two Dollars. Remember that.

☞ Remember that on Saturday next the Stockholders of the Albemarle Agricultural Society meet at the Court House in Elizabeth City to elect officers, perfect the charter etc. The hour of the meeting is 3 o'clock P. M. Let there be a full attendance.

☞ Among the Northern arrivals since our last we notice ALFRED ROGERS and lady from Brooklyn, N. Y., J. B. ANDERSON, from Boston, Mass., J. SHEARS, from New York, S. N. COX, L. KAMES and F. PAXSON from Philadelphia, and J. BUNNELL from Wellsboro, Pa.

☞ The meeting of the Farmer's Club on Saturday was small in numbers. The members should not let the interest die out. The discussions are generally practical and sometimes interesting. These meetings, if largely attended, could be made the means of doing incalculable good. And it is needed.

☞ Mr. H. C. PRICE, for a long time connected with our office, left on Monday expecting in a few days to make a visit North. HARRY is a good printer, reliable, obliging and made many friends here. He has the respect and confidence of the whole force of the office from the Editor down to the Devil. He carries the best wishes of all with him.

☞ The season has not been as favorable this year for early vegetables and strawberries as last year was. The "dry spell" early in the spring acted unfavorably on the pea crop and the excess of moisture about the time the strawberries were maturing cut them short nearly one half. To give an idea of the difference between the two seasons, Mr. J. CLARK PERRY informs us that off his five acre field from which he picked 13,000 quarts last year, he only gathered about 7,000 this.

☞ In reply to "A Farmer" we would say that the time for cutting clover is, for the first crop, when the heads are in full bloom, and before they begin to turn black. The hay is more relished by stock when cut at this stage than when left 'til a later period. The same rule applies to the second crop unless it is intended to save the seed; then the cutting should be delayed until the blooms have turned to blackness, for it is in these the seed is matured.

☞ During the campaign, the NORTH CAROLINIAN proposes to do its full duty. We feel that momentous issues are involved and that the future weal of the State and nation is in the contest. The ignorant must be enlightened, the lukewarm aroused, the weak strengthened and the demagogue Democracy rebuked and thwarted. Earnest, faithful and vigorous work is demanded. We will do our full share. The good cause can be materially aided just now by its friends giving our paper a wider circulation. We intend to make it a blazing battery against Democratic arrogance, and fraud, and corruption. Now is the time to get the people to read it.

☞ The following is a list of patents issued from the United States Patent Office to N. Carolina Inventors for the week ending May 7, 1872, and each bearing that date. Furnished this paper by Cox & Cox, Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C.

☞ They mistake who think the NORTH CAROLINIAN is run in the interest of any man, any clique, or any faction. It has aimed so far as politics are concerned, to be the organ of the Republican party. It always has been untrammeled—independent—free. It will remain so. It desires the Republicans of all parts of the District to feel that it is their paper and that it is published for the benefit of all. We trust this announcement will be understood and appeciated.

☞ Our concerned young friends may rest easy, for it don't disturb us—the gossip and scolding of the busy bodies about town who "have nothing else to do." When they have talked out their feelings they are so much more apt to feel better. The old nurses used to give children saffron tea for the measles, and rejoiced when they saw the skin red with the efflorescence. With some people the NORTH CAROLINIAN seems to have the same happy effect. It causes their temper to come out to the surface. It would be shocking to allow it to strike in again!

☞ We trust that those of our friends who are aspirants for county nominations and who would like to have us say a good word for them in our paper will take a sober second thought and reflect upon the impropriety of our doing so. Personally we have our preference—our choice. This is natural and all very proper. Nor do we practice any concealment respecting it. But while the paper is the organ of the party it would be in bad taste—nay, highly improper for it to be used in favoring any one Republican's interest over that of another before the nominating Convention. Hence the NORTH CAROLINIAN must wait until after the nominations are made. Then, as in duty bound, it will work for the nominees.

☞ The leaders of the Elizabeth City Democracy have been hoisted by their own petard. From the days of reconstruction down they have been cursing those who "voted for a nigger," insisting that no party of decency or respectability would recognize "niggers holding office" either in theory or practice. But lo! in an hour of temptation they, even they resisted not, but rallied to the support of the once denounced High Priest of "negro worshippers" and voted the "nigger ticket" straight through. Hereafter let us hear no more against "voting for niggers" or "niggers holding office." That battery is silenced. They spiked it themselves, and ever since we see some of them going about town looking as if they feel disposed to try their teeth upon some unfortunate ten penny nail that might unhappily cross their path.

Two New York assemblymen were walking down State street in Albany, after the passage of the charter bill. "I feel," said one of them, "as if I deserved to be kicked for voting for the charter." His friend replied. "That's just the way I feel myself; let's go up this alley and kick each other."

On the 31st ult., at Memphis Tenn. Mr. Geo. F. Clark, attached to Noyes' circus, in making a balloon ascension struck against Jackson Block, the ropes supporting the trapeze on which he was seated parted and he was precipitated to the ground—a distance of fifty feet. He was cut and bruised in a horrible manner, and there is small hopes of his recovery.

At the late Medical Convention at Newbern, Miss Susan Dimmock, M. D., who is a graduate of several European Medical Universities, was admitted as an Honorary Member of the Society after an animated and lengthy debate. The rules of the Society forbid any persons being made members unless they stand their examination before the Board. In this case, the rule was suspended, and Miss Dimmock, who is now in Massachussetts, connected with a Hospital, was admitted without the preliminary examnation.

Thousands of our people were ruined by the war inaugurated by the Democratic party, and yet when the Republican party offered the people of the State a Constitution which provided a homestaed—thus enabling our people to save a home from the general wreck, Judge Merrimon and his friends labored hard to prevent even a home being saved. Is he a poor man's friend? It is our opinion that he now believes the homestead unconstitutional, null and void. Can we trust him?—Era

A PITIFUL CONDITION.—It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no spacific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to) but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time by administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle; bone and nerve and brain, flows through the "channels of circulation," instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

AN IMPORTANT CONSIDERATION.—Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills are purely Vegetable, and are adjusted to young and old, male and female, and may be taken at all times, without restraint of occupation, without change of living, without diet, and without the fear of taking cold, during all kinds of weather, and in all climates.

Dear Sir—You make two preparations which, it appears to me, are worthy of a more general acceptance than they have had as yet, probably because they have not been "puffed" in these newspapers. I allude to your Liver Pills and Aromatic Elixir of Cirate of Caffeine. The former have been used in my own case—torpor of the Liver—and in my family with a marked success, and I believe them superior in all biliary derangements to any pills now made. The Caffeine is the only remedy that has, in my experience, proved effectual for nervous headaches. It never fails, and the relief it affords is delicious; for not only does the pain cease, but a pleasant exhilaration supervenes, an suffering is converted to pleasure. A vial of it is kept at home and one at my office, that I may never be without it in case of need.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH P. CARR, Attorney at Law.

DR. TUTT'S Hair Dye requires but a few minutes.

FLAVORING EXTRACTS are of primary importance in cookery; and of all articles of this description the highly concentrated Standard Extracts, prepared by Joseph Burnett & Co., Boston, are pronounced by leading confiseurs—Professor Blot among the number—the purest and best.

HUMAN WRECKS—Every day and hour we meet with broken down specimens of humanity—wrecks that seem past hope or salvage. At least seven-eighths of these might be filled with new vitality, by a course of Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters. Many are suffering from the reaction of rum-bolluted bitters or powerful alcoholic. It is characteristic of Dr. Walkers Grand Restorative that it neutralizes the effect of these miscalled remedies, and accomplishes, in due time a perfect cure.

NATURE GIVES US TEETH, but she does not preserve and purify them. That must be done with Fragrant Sozodont. The dental bone and its enamel casing are made invulnerable to all destructive influences by the daily use of this beuficent preparation.

Sold by all Druggists. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL—Safest and best illuminating oil ever made. Does not take fire or explode, if the lamp is upset or broken. Over 150,000 families continues to use it, and no accidents of any description have occured from it. Oil House of Charles Pratt, established 1770, New York.

FOUTZ'S
CELEBRATED
Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

To Your Cellars, O Farmers.!

A well-known writer, S. O. J., paints, in The Country Gentleman, the revolting picture of too many cellars under country-houses, which are an abomination in the sight of the Lord, who places cleanliness next to godliness. There are rotten fruits, remnants of bins of decaying potatoes, turnips, cabbages, musty barrels. These emit gases and odors which breed disease, which the preacher at the funeral speaks of as an inscrutable Providence. Nonsense.

Take the barrels out of doors! wash them and let them dry; bury in the barn-yard all decaying vegetable matter. Look to the pork and the beef barrels; keep them sweet and clean. Commence the work in the morning, when the sun shines warm and bright; remove all the Banking, take out the windows, throw open the latchway, and let the fresh air blow through every part. Carry out every barrel and movable thing, and sweep the bottom thoroughly; and not only the bottom, but the sides and the corners. Do you think they are clean? The foul air, the lightest air, is settled there, pressing its way upward into your rooms, and sowing the seeds of diphtheria, fevers of all kinds. So take a thick broom and scrub down every part; give the sides a similar treatment, and clean the cellar thoroughly; do not forget routing potato or onion; all the vegetables are better in the barn than the cellar now. To be sure, it is not easy work; but neither is it easy to watch by the sick bed, to see our loved ones suffer, to have no rest night or day, and finally to take them for the grave.

Make a lye or stewash with one peck of unslacked lime and boiling water enough to dissolve it, add to it four pounds copperas and two pounds of flour starch; make it quite thin enough to spread well, and yellow with the copperas. Wash every rafter, stone, and brick or crevice at the sides of overhead, and see how sweet the place will become; and what a scampering of mice and rats will follow. Throw bits of copperas in the corners, lay them on the shelves, and purify every part of the cellar with this cheap disinfectant, which is also disagreeable to the rodentia.

Don't hesitate to do this, because your own health and the health of your wife and children depend upon it. A family living over a foul cellar is more liable to be afflicted with illness than a city family living in a tenament building. With plenty of pure air, water, and exercise, farmers ought to keep the evil imp, disease, from their midst; but foul cellars, small sleeping rooms and crowding country villages as unhealthy as the crowded city. Diptheria has been fatal in the country than in the city. In one country family it carried grave five of the members in four weeks; and in another four in two weeks. The attending physician traced the disease to foul drains, but the parents scoffed at the idea, and bewailed the severe stroke received from Divine hand. Ignorance of sanitary laws fills our graveyards, and this Summer death will be a successful reaper if farmers forget that perfect cleanliness in their cellars and barns is essential to the lives of their families.

Jefferson's Farming.

President Burton writes in the Atlantic Monthly The young man took hold of his business as a farmer in a manner which showed that he had the genuine culture of the best preparation for the common as well as for the higher duties of life. Everything he did he was the master of, and doing. Was there ever a mortal more punctual, so indefatigable as to be willing and tabularizing details? He said to have lived pen in hand his garden-book, a farm-book, a stock-book, a receipt-book, a pocket-expenditure book, and later, a fee-book; and there was nothing too trivial to be entered in one of them, provided it really had any relation to matters of importance. In the short Virginia spring, neat hand then common in Virginia would record in his pocket-book such items as these: 'Put into the ground 1d.;' 'Paid a barber, 11d.;' 'Paid Jones, 4s. 2d.;' 'Paid for whetting knife, 4d.:' 'Paid my part for a trip to Williamsburg, 10.;' 'Paid for nails, 35c.;' 'Paid postage, 8s. In the garden-book, for some pages we are indpted to Mr. Randall, for countless entires like the following: 'March 30, seowed a patch of celery;' 'July 15, plantep out celery;' 'July 22, had the last dish of our spring peas;' 'March 31, grafted 5 French chestnuts into two stocks of common chestnut.' His garden-books showed that he was a constant experimenter, always eager to try foreign seeds and and roots, of which he introduced a great number in the course of his life. They show, also, a close observer and calculator. His weather-book, of which I possess a few pages, given to me by Mr Randall, is a wonder of neatness and accuracy. Fifty-nine days, weath his-small page. This one day's March 24, at 6:40 A. M.: ther. Barom. 22; wind N. W.; force of (not stated); weather, clear after Blue Ridge and higher parts of S. W. mountains covered with snow. No snow here, but much ice; black frost.' Multiplied by fifty-nine, and you have the contents of one page of his weather-book for every year, after the lapse of a century, is as clear and legible as type. It is ruled in ten columns for each class of entries of minute record, which with him to the end of his days, while he was still a student. He never contend himself with the mere record of items. These were regularly reviewed, added compared and utilized by possible way.

If people planting orchards would give the bark the north side of trees a chalk before they are taken up, and when set out to have the trees put in the ground with their north side to the sun in their natural position, a larger crop would live. Ignoring this there is the cause of so many young trees dying. If the north side is exposed to the south, the heat of the sun is too great for that side of the tree, and therefore it dries up and decays.

The Garden gives the following reasons for steaming potatoes instead of boiling: Potatoes being a mass of flour particles, become watery from being covered with a weight of water, the particles not being able to expand and burst in flour. With steaming they are not covered; but if steamed too long, the flour particles absorb the steam, and become waterlogged, but, of course, they are not such a watery mass as when they are boiled.

A grindstone should not be exposed to the weather, as it not only injures the wood-work, but the sun's rays harden the stone so much as, in time, to render it useless. Neither should it stand in the water in which it runs, as the part remaining in water softens so much that it wears unequally, and this is a common cause of grindstones becoming "out of true."

Potato bugs are wofully painted sitting up on their hind legs on Iowa fences, and weeping at the backwardness of the season.

GEO. D. POOL'S COLUMN.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE,
OF VALUABLE
NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,
FOR SALE BY
GEORGE D. POOL.
Real Estate Agent,
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2.000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3.000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3.000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7,00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

VINEGAR BITTERS

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen'l Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 & 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

HORNER'S
MARYLAND
SUPER-PHOSPHATE.
(We court the Chemist's inquiry.)

After 23 years experience in the Fertilizing business, and after establishing a wide reputation for the purity and excellence of his Bone Dust, the subscriber has been induced to prepare a Phosphate suitable to the requirements and every way worthy the attention of the Southern Farmer.

The "MARYLAND" is a permanent and permanent improver of the soil. It stimulates equal to Peruvian Guano, and sustains equal to Bone, being composed almost entirely o these ingredients, with a very liberal per centage of Potash in the residium. There is no adulterator nor inferior article used—every particle of the Phosphate being of essentiay benefit to the land. Neither pains nor expense have been spared in its preparation, and we claim for it the greatest benefit to the farmer from the smallest outlay.

For Cotton, Wheat and Corn, and as a general stimulant and ailment for worn and impoverished land there can be nothing superior. It is warranted to run as high in Ammonia and higher in Bone Phosphate than any other fertilizer in the market.

Price $50 per ton, in new bags. No charge for delivery.

BONE DUST $45, BONE MEAL $50, DISSOLVED BONE $42, our own manufacture, in new bogs; Eastern and Western BONE DUST $35. PERUVIAN GUANO delivered from Peruvian Government Warehouse at lowest rates. No charge for delivery.

THE GREAT SOUTHERN
TOBACCO SUSTAIN
AND LAND RENEWER.

The Sustain is a specific restorer of the exhausted properties of impoverished and over strained land, and will generously repay the cost of its outlay in the quality and quantity, of the Tobacco Crop, besides permonently improvian the soil and raising it to its virgin standard.

It gives vigor to the young plant, promotes its rapid growth and insures, in the matured crop a thickened, heavy leaf.

It is prepared similarly to the Maryland except that it contains much more potash and other Tobacco forming properties.

☞ $50 PER TON. NO CHARGE FOR DELIVERY.

Discovery of the Dry Earth System and in connection therewith a practical method of using the same in
EARTH CLOSETS AND COMMODES,

We ask every decent person to aid us in banishing from the earth every vile country privy—those loathsome, indecent, pestiferous, health and life destroying structures—the bane of every country community. Every person thus engaged becomes a public benefactor.

By all odds the most complete and perfect yet invented is the
WAKEFIELD PATENT.

They have been adopted by the Central Park Commissioners, and 100 ordered for use in the park.

Application for agencies from responsible parties will be considered.
